Stone is a natural product. No two tile pieces are exactly the same and each piece is likely to vary in color and texture. Because of its inherent characteristics, all purchasers will be required to inspect and approve each order of stone tile for color and texture prior to taking possession and/or installation. Installation warrants acceptance. Purchaser is responsible for determining the suitability of the stone tile for intended use. Additional stone tile ordered at a later date is not guaranteed to match the original stone tile purchased. Most natural stone tiles are recommended to be sealed with a water-based penetrating sealer before installing and after grouting for best appearance and superior stain protection.
